

ECHA News guidelines

Audience:

- Occupants of the Edmonton Clinic Health Academy
- Health Sciences faculty, staff and students
- Anyone interested in interdisciplinarianism in health education and research

Distribution:

The ECHA news is created with and distributed via Constant Contact. People join the mailing list voluntarily and may unsubscribe at any time. Once unsubscribed, address cannot be re-added by anyone other than the address owner.

The current ECHA News distribution list includes over 700 addresses.

Readership:

The ECHA News enjoys consistently high open rates of 48% - 50%
(the average open rate for e-news of this kind is ~25%)

Submission Guidelines:

Length: Maximum 150 words on screen; longer articles can be linked or attached as PDF files.

Pictures: Pictures are encouraged! Please ensure they are JPEG, GIF or PNG format and sized as follows: 400-600 pixels preferred – maximum is 800 pixels 350KB maximum

Colour: No CMYK – RGB is best

Deadlines:

The ECHA News is distributed on the last Wednesday of the month, with submission deadlines one week prior. There are occasional exceptions – please refer to the schedule on page 3.

Content

We are always learning what is of interest to our readership. The ECHA news will adapt to reflect input from readers. We welcome the following:

- feature stories about ECHA occupants (individual or group successes, new people or groups moving into ECHA space);
- public events occurring in ECHA (lectures, seminars, speakers, fundraisers, etc.);
- announcements pertinent to the building.
- articles highlighting interdisciplinary (ID) work within your faculty or department;
- stories about students pursuing ID research or engaged in interprofessional (IP) education;
- published interdisciplinary or interprofessional education research;
- other content is welcome – please get in touch echainfo@ualberta.ca

1

Some specifics

- Advertising for commercial entities or activities is not permitted in the ECHA News.
- Content providers are responsible for fact-checking content and links they provide.
- Submissions may be edited for tone, voice and content.
- Submissions may or may not be selected for inclusion All writing will be edited for Canadian style.
- Weights and measures should be in metric first, with conversion to imperial in brackets if required.
- All guidelines quoted should be from Canadian sources (food guide, physical activity guide, recommended daily allowance etc.).
- Content should be sent as an MS Word, or Pages document, or in the body of an email.
- Content should not be formatted except as necessary (no bold, italics, fancy fonts, borders etc.).
- Please note the total width of the newsletter template is 240 pixels.

Write for a General Audience

- Acronyms - Spell out all acronyms the first time they're used. (with some exceptions)
- Jargon - Please avoid jargon; while your co-worker might 'speak the same language' a general audience will not. In the spirit of interdisciplinary communication, make sure readers in other disciplines can understand your ideas!
- Reader's knowledge level - Even in a university, write as if the reader knows little about your topic; for example, briefly explain important points and never assume that the reader is already familiar with specific parts of your project/work area. This is an electronic document, so remember to embed links in areas where the reader may want to find out more!
- Skip minute details - Focus on an overview; your audience will get lost in excessive detail.
- Direct, simple language - Keep it simple. Writing should not be arduous - if it is then the reading will be equally unappealing.

Write for a web audience

- Inverted Pyramid Elaborate the main point first and work downwards in terms of priority of information.
- Concise Text Remove redundancies and unimportant details.
- Sub-Headlines Break long paragraphs of text into smaller chunks with headlines and sub-headlines.
- Use Bullets Use bullets to show listed items; it makes the content easier to read and appear more organized. (Please use these guidelines for formatting bullets)
- Contextual Links Include links to related content, and make sure that the words or phrases you use as links are contextual.

Edit, edit, edit

No one knows your content as well as you, but a second set of eyes always helps; take a few minutes to have someone else proof read your article.

Some useful resources

The Canadian Style and other free language and writing resources from the Government of Canada.

Metric Conversion charts

2016-2017 ECHA News deadlines
Article submissions	Publication dates
September 14	September 21
October 12	October 19
November 16	November 23
December 7	December 14
December 14	Special Holiday issue December 21
January 18	January 25
February 15	February 22
March 15	March 22
April 12	April 19
May 17	May 24
June 14	June 21
July 12	July 19
August 16	August 23

< page 2

Updated August 22, 2016